Forward

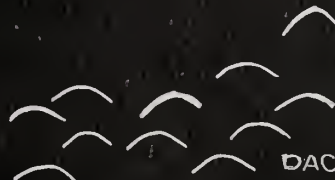

We Americans are conscious of the influence of English tradition and originality upon our lives. We recognize that this influence was especially important during the period of colonization when all facets of a new American life were derived from British tradition and were blended with the originality of the pioneer. We feel that it is this same combination of originality and tradition that has made our class unique. For this reason we have chosen the English colonization period as the theme for our yearbook.

Dedication

Mr. Russell R. Cook graduated from Fitchburg State College in 1948 and received his Master's Degree from the same school in 1952. He became a member of the Fitchburg High School faculty in 1952. He teaches graphic arts and has been head of the Industrial Arts Department since 1960.

Mr. Cook has been a dedicated class adviser as well as a friend to all. He, his wife, and his three children live in the countryside of Greenville, New Hampshire. Theirs is a fun-loving family. Often when his children are playing in a distance field, he calls them home with a walkie-talkie.

Mr. Cook is in charge of the annual Washington trip. His enthusiasm and humor are well summed up in his recent slogan, "Take the bus with Russ and leave the driving to us!" Mr. Cook was appointed as our class adviser, and we, the Class of 1966, feel that we could not have chosen a finer one.

Principal

To the Class of 1966:

Even though I have known you only a short time, I must commend you for the fine cooperation you have given me in my first year as the principal of Fitchburg High School.

Your zeal and enthusiasm, your ardent desire for the need of learning, your self-discipline, and your overwhelming show of school spirit have made my job an easy task. To you, the Class of 1966, I am most grateful.

You now must take your place in the adult world. The complex, interrelated, and compressed world with its social, economic, political, religious, and ideological conflicts will seem to raise insurmountable barriers to you. You may feel some trepidation in facing them. Yet for the past four years the faculty here at the high school have guided you to this end—to meet the demands of the outside world.

It is our hope that, formed by the ideals you have been taught, you will be prepared to show by your action that you are responsible citizens of the United States.

My best wishes for personal success and happiness to all of you for the many years to come.

Business Department

Vocational in concept, the Business Department trains students in business skills and gives them experience in office work. The secretarial program stresses stenography and office practice, while the clerical program excludes these courses and offers instead other electives to those more interested in bookkeeping. The part-time program enables above-average students to gain experience by doing actual office work during school hours. Typing Special, the only non-vocational course of the program, is offered to college-course freshmen.

The Business Department insists upon and maintains quality by requiring students to earn at least a "C" average in order to take more advanced courses, such as stenography, typing, and bookkeeping. In this way the Business Department produces creditable workers, well prepared for business careers after graduation.

English Department

Under the direction of Miss Lillian M. Taylor, the English Department of Fitchburg High School develops students intellectually, socially, and aesthetically through the study and interpretation of literature.

To help us learn to live with other human beings, an understanding of human nature has been stressed in our English courses throughout our four years of high school. Our English teachers have strived to encourage our special creativity in expression, logical thinking, critical judgment, and personal knowledge and to instill in us an appreciation of our literary heritage.

Foreign Language Department

Armand Dufour
Department Head

In a world constantly shrinking in size and in a civilization ever advancing in culture, knowledge in more than one language is becoming more and more valuable. The Language Department enables students to study foreign languages and to gain proficiency in them through advanced course programs.

Of the romance language courses, Italian and Spanish are taught in three-year programs; French is offered for four years; and German may be studied for three years. The object of these modern language courses is to teach students to read, to write, and to speak foreign tongues—skills which will be useful in future studies and travel.

Latin and its classical literature are taught in a four year program. Like other languages, Latin expresses and communicates important ideas. In addition, Latin aids students in English through word derivation and grammar and demonstrates to students the universality and timelessness of philosophy and morals.

Mathematics Department

Through the study of mathematics, man learns about the complexity and vastness of his world. Besides preparing young men and women for future technical training, the Mathematics Department at Fitchburg High School endeavors to give each student a deeper understanding of the infinite uses and theories of mathematics. As Seniors, we have come to realize the many applications of the various kinds of mathematics we have studied in our four years at Fitchburg High. Now at the completion of one period of life and at the beginning of another, we realize the value of mathematics and the excellent training offered by the Mathematics Department at Fitchburg High School.

Guidance Department

The Guidance Department at Fitchburg High School assists students in selecting the proper courses or institutions for higher learning and counsels students whenever necessary. Through varied testing programs, Mr. Quinn, Mr. Karkos, and Miss McDermott see that every student enrolls in the courses best suited to his talents.

During our Senior year the Guidance Office becomes as familiar to us as our homerooms for it is the guidance counselors who help us mold our futures.

Physical Education Department

Through a well-planned and regulated program of exercise and sports, the Physical Education Department develops the physical fitness of the entire student body. There is a varied schedule of activities designed to suit the needs and interests of all the students and to encourage team co-operation and individual initiative. For the girls there are intramural basketball and volleyball, tennis, bowling, and a gymnastic club, while for the boys intra-team sports are emphasized. However, since Fitchburg High School realizes that physical education has an even more basic role to play in maintaining the good health of students, the Physical Education Department sponsors an essential program of regular exercises, guided by trained teachers.

By stimulating the search for knowledge of basic concepts and by providing an opportunity for their application, the Science Department helps students to adjust to the complexities of the modern world.

There is a diversified program of study, including Earth Science, General Science, Biology, Chemistry, Biochemistry, and Physics, and a newly formed Chemistry Club provides an added opportunity for individual research.

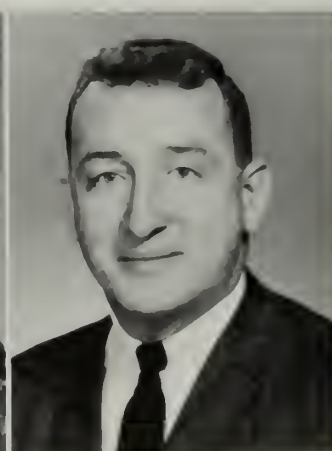

The Science Department prepares the students of Fitchburg High School for the highly technical world of tomorrow.

Social Science Department

The Social Science Department recognizes the importance of well-informed citizens and, therefore, assists the student in developing his sense of responsibility as a citizen. By studying both past and present events, the student becomes acquainted with the development of our nation, and with this knowledge of the past, the student is more aware of economic and social affairs. To fully understand a nation's diplomacy, the student studies the customs, ideas, and actions of a foreign land.

The study of our government is essential to us, the students, who will choose the future leaders of our country and determine our nation's political actions.

Vocational Department

The aim of the Vocational Department is to provide students with an opportunity for profitable employment in specialized fields. A student can train for his chosen career in Automobile Mechanics, Electricity, Machinery, or Wood Working. Upon graduation, each student receives a trade certificate which qualifies him for skilled employment.

This unique program supplies modern industry with competent, dependable workers.

Industrial Arts

Industrial Arts orient the student in the technical and industrial aspects of life. This orientation is sought through study, planning, and construction experience in the laboratories and shops.

The purposes of the industrial arts program are to teach the student to use leisure time more effectively, to enable him to deal more intelligently with consumer goods, and to help him become a more efficient producer. The program also emphasizes the need for safety and the need for training in the student's particular field.

The staff of the 1966 Boulder has endeavored to design a yearbook which exactly expresses the vitality, meaning, and aim of the Class of 1966. We sincerely hope that every page, every picture, and every word conveys the true spirit of our class.

The 1966 Boulder is one of the few tangible things which we shall have to remind us of our high school years. Years from graduation we shall enjoy flipping through the pages and reliving our youth.

The staff of the 1966 Boulder is proud to present this yearbook as a reflection of the warmth and spirit of the class.

Booster Club

The Booster Club, open only to seniors, represents the student body in demonstrating the spirit of the school in athletic events. The club officers and executive committee arrange the rallies, and the club members, by performing in original skits and providing colorful posters, demonstrate the school's support to the team. A highlight of the year was the Thanksgiving rally where the students displayed their overwhelming enthusiasm through attractive decorations and humorous skits. By selling bows, pins, and sweatshirts, the students emphasized their pride in Fitchburg High School.

As we, the class of nineteen hundred and sixty-six, leave Fitchburg High School, we shall always remember the lasting friendships and treasured experiences we enjoyed as members of the Booster Club.

Student Council

The Student Council, under the direction of Mr. James Sweeney and Miss Rita Mallahy, is composed of nine seniors, six juniors, and four sophomores elected by their respective classes. The Council has many important powers and responsibilities: to supervise all general elections; to establish and enforce regulations for assemblies, study halls, corridors, cafeteria, school grounds, social events, and public functions; to consider policies, activities and changes recommended by students and teachers; and to authorize, sponsor, and supervise drives and campaigns. Perhaps the most important function of the Student Council is to promote respect for Fitchburg High School and unity among its students.

Dramatic Club

The tension felt by the actors before the first act of the Senior Class Play, the interclass rivalry of the Competitive Plays, and the rewarding experience of working together to produce a fine play, skit, or dramatic reading—these are all part of the Dramatic Club at Fitchburg High School. In sponsoring theatrical performances, the Dramatic Club gives a great number of students the opportunity to express themselves by conducting a meeting, performing on the stage, or working backstage. Participation in the Fitchburg High School Dramatic Club helps members to understand better the people and situations they will encounter throughout life.

Senior Literary Club

For many years the Senior Literary Club has been a valuable part of the extracurricular activities of Fitchburg High School. Its members, chosen on the basis of their English achievement, have an opportunity to enrich their knowledge of the world's great literature through the various lectures presented by visiting authorities.

This year, through the efforts of Miss Lillian Taylor, the Senior Literary Club had the good fortune of hearing Mr. John Baimas discuss the 1963 Nobel Prize winning poet Seferis, Mr. John McGrail lecture on Yeats, Mr. Louis Shepherd speak on James Joyce, and the Reverend John Capuano discuss Dante.

Under the advisorship of members of the Senior Literary Club, a Sophomore Reading Club has been formed this year to guide and stimulate sophomores in the reading of worthwhile books and poems.

Mr. John McGrail speaks on Yeats.

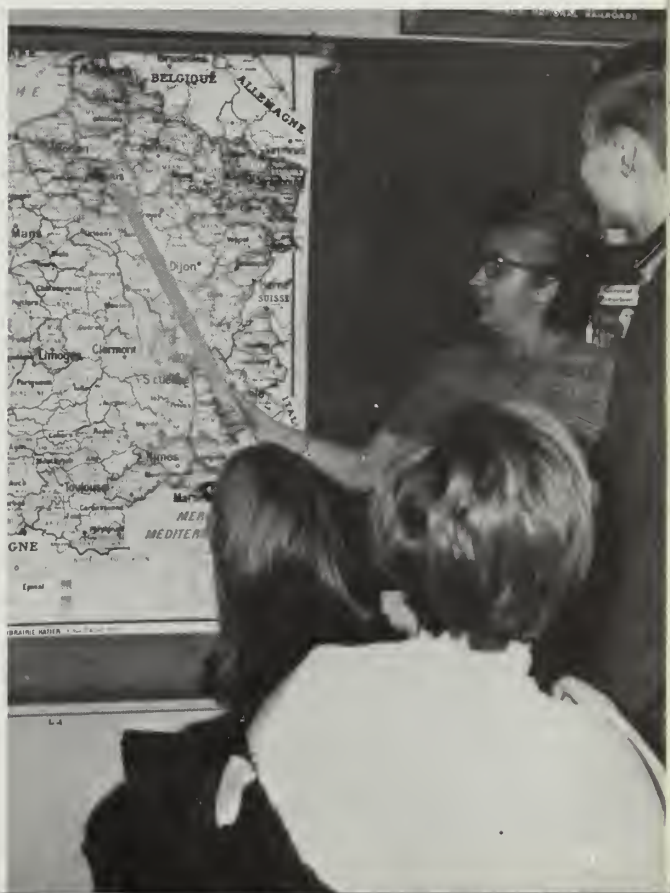

French Club

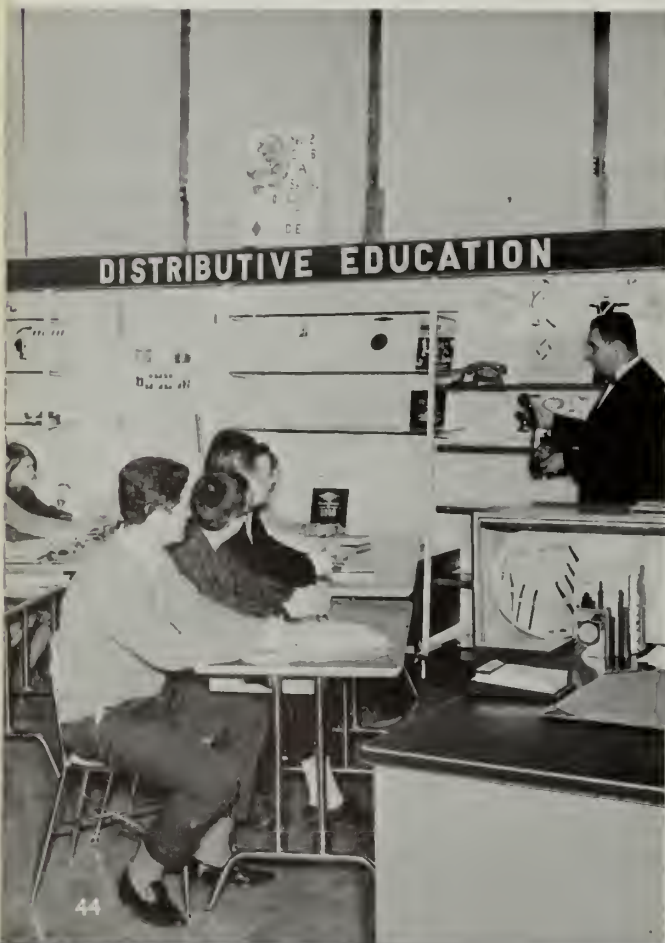

"Le Cercle Francais" is a rewarding expansion of the opportunities offered by the French program at Fitchburg High School. Honor students in French with a genuine interest in French language and culture may become club members. While informality enables students to pursue worthwhile activity without class pressure and control, basic parliamentary procedure maintains courtesy and friendliness.

Conversations at meetings are conducted entirely in French and, therefore, improves speech and knowledge of the language. Recitations given by student members stress the spirit and institutions of France. By having the students themselves talk on cultural aspects, club members are inspired by emulation of their classmates to participate actively in the enriching program.

D.E.C.A.

The program of the Distributive Education Clubs of America emphasizes marketing, merchandising, and management to promote appreciation for citizenship responsibilities in our competitive enterprise system. D.E.C.A. gives the student an opportunity to participate in school activities and teaches him to lead as well as to follow. D.E.C.A. is important not only to the student, but also to the community and the nation, for it strives for vocational understanding, civic consciousness, social intelligence, and leadership development.

"Now this 'hot line' is only for emergencies."

Red and Gray

As a literary magazine and a school newspaper, the Red and Gray serves a dual purpose. Headed by Editor Steven Rustari and Assistant Editor Frances Flaum, the various staffs, consisting of juniors, and seniors, are responsible for all material published.

The literary staff collects, reads, and revises the original stories and poems submitted by students. The exchange committee corresponds with other high schools and reviews their publications in a column reactivated this year.

The school notes and athletic staffs report on important school activities. The personals column includes photographs and write-ups of students, and a column, entitled "I Think," allows students to voice their opinions on various topics.

The business staff is in charge of obtaining advertising subscriptions from local clients while the art and photography departments provide the needed illustrations and pictures. The special features staff does research and is responsible for original and unusual items.

Music Department

Under the skillful direction of Mr. Carlton Thorne, the Music Department has established a reputation for high quality. The mixed chorus and the band have enlightened audiences with their annual performances at the Christmas and the Spring Concerts.

In the spring of 1965 the Concert Choir and the Concert Band performed, by invitation, at the New York World's Fair, while in the fall of 1965 the Marching Band placed first in competition with bands from other cities in Massachusetts.

Everyone has a right to be proud of our Music Department which is an important link between our school and our city.

Those cheerleaders aren't too bad.

Although the Fitchburg High eleven were unable to secure a victory in the 1965 campaign, the team displayed a strong seasonal effort. Led by Co-Captains Bernie Araujo and Les Meehan, the squad fought vigorously against its competitors. Unfortunately, Fitchburg sparked only as a first-half team and was not able to muster maximum strength for any Saturday afternoon clash. Seniors Greg Caves, Ernie DiGeronimo, Ralph Alario, and Steve Bedard, plagued by injuries, were absent temporarily from the gridiron scene. Other players such as Tom Townsend, Sam "Goose" Mancuso, and Tom Laramie managed to stay physically fit from September to November and contributed needed power.

Head Coach Marco Landon, hampered by the lack of veteran ball players, faced a difficult rebuilding year. Fitchburg welcomed a newcomer to Crocker Field, assistant coach David Towers. The class of 1966 wishes to thank mentors Towers, Conway, and Landon for their excellent contributions to the development of our boys.

Coach Erkki Koutonen's harriers chalked up another successful season; the cross country team went undefeated in six dual meets. Senior Co-Captains Alan Cackett and Dick Gates placed continually among the top ten winners of each meet. Other Seniors such as Steve Wilbur, Chris Marble, and Don Bernier contributed needed points.

Swimming

At the start of the swimming season, Coach Bob Christie claimed that he had good depth and that his inexperienced swimmers were progressing rapidly. The mentor also said that the squad should do well against high school competitors, but that it might suffer defeat against strong private schools. He mentioned that the team was looking forward to and preparing for its meet with the Gardner state champions. Mr. Christie's predictions were very accurate. The Mermen were beaten by only one private school, the Deerfield Academy JV's, and suffered no losses to any other squad. The most exciting experience of the season came when, in its last meet, Fitchburg defeated arch-rival, Gardner. This is the first time our school has beaten the Chair City team. Gardner has been state champions twelve out of the past twenty years and for the past four years has lost to no high school except Fitchburg.

Basketball

Coach Oliva and Captain DiPace

The Fitchburg High quintet, posting a record of seven wins and eleven losses, had an erratic but fruitful season. The team had a poor start not only because it lost games but because it lacked team effort. At first, only an attitude of individual gain reflected from the court to the stands. Perhaps the boys were tired of reading Sentinel sports accounts, because a mid-season rally helped clinch important victories. St. Bernards, Athol, and Gardner were defeated by hard fighting Raider Hoopsters. This desire to play collectively definitely added extra wins. Captain Steve DiPace ended his third year of varsity basketball during his senior year.

Indoor Track

The Board Pounders compiled a successful record by winning seven out of nine dual meets. Mentor Ed Gastonguay deserves credit for his efforts. He produced a team that had great spirit. His training program helped make the boys fine runners. Seniors were among those in the seasonal limelight. Capt. Steve Bedard placed first in the 600 yard run at the K of C meet in Boston while Steve Michaelides took the fourth in the BAA shot put. Other "sixty-six" men who added necessary points were Don Bernier, Allan Cackett, Dick Gates, James Sciabarasi, and Steve Wilbur. Let us also mention that the indoor track team runners have to practice out of doors. Although January and February weather conditions were not exactly appealing, the boys managed to complete a vigorous daily practice.

Junior Prom

We, the class of 1966, desired the best, the most original Junior Prom in the one-hundred-year history of Fitchburg High School. Through initiative and perseverance we obtained our desire. On the night of February sixth, we entered the gymnasium to find ourselves in the warm and rustic atmosphere of a German tavern overlooking a quaint German stone village. The fire in the enormous stone fireplace added a warm glow. Checked tablecloths and wax-covered wine bottles helped to enrich the Bavarian atmosphere. Surely the decorations and the prom itself were simply "wunderbar."

Competitive Plays

The Competitive Plays is an annual production of the Fitchburg High School dramatic club under the direction of Mrs. Virginia Gallant. As sophomores the class of 1966 presented, "I'm a Fool" adapted from the short story by Sherwood Anderson. Mark Kielty received the award for best actor. In 1964, sixteen juniors presented Sir James Barrie's mystery "Shall We Join the Ladies? A mood of frightful tension was carefully contrived and carried throughout the entire play.

On December 10, 1965, the class of 1966 presented Eugene O'Neil's tense drama, "The Rope." Steven Rustari, as a sermonizing grandfather, Leonard Arminio, as the prodigal son who returns unexpectedly, Melanie Gallo, as the old man's distraught daughter, Charles Johnson, as her husband, Diane Beauregard, as their daughter, offered portrayals that helped win the award of the best play for the senior class. Mrs. Virginia Gallant was to a very great degree responsible for the success of the play. The arduous work of the cast, the crew, and above all, Mrs. Gallant was well-rewarded by the award of the best play presented to the seniors.

"I'd smash your brains out for a nickel!"

"You say the food was poisoned?"

"I'd rather do it myself!"

"What are you doing hanging around up there?"

"I told you to stay out of fights!"

Junior-Senior Basketball Game

We, the Senior Class, in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and sixty-
six

8KB

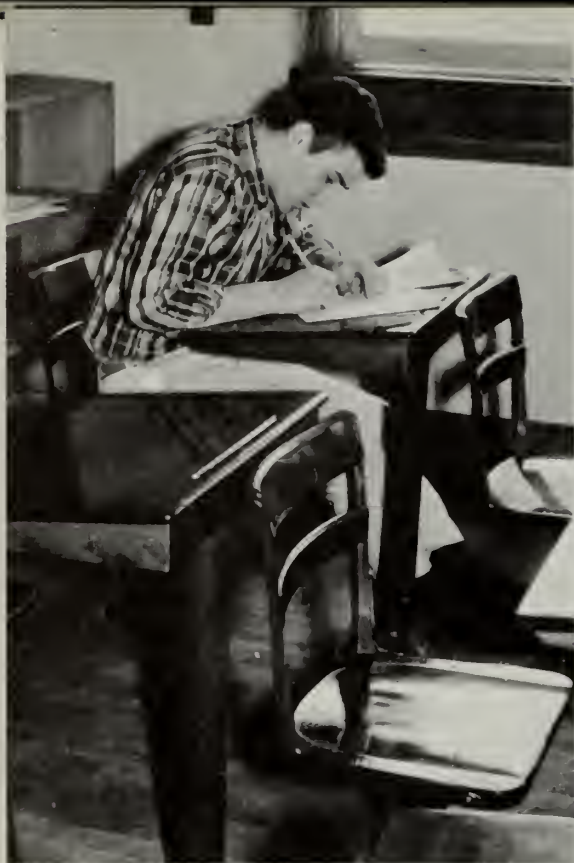

President, Steve DiPace; Secretary, Bonnie Darcy;
Vice-President, Janet Drury; Treasurer, Alan Forgues.

. . . now, as graduates, reflect upon ourselves, and our class. Often in intra-class rivalries the words "the spirit of '66", written in red or blue, have appeared on a shoulder, a hat, a sign, a coffin. What do these words mean? Nothing . . . unless you have experienced the thrill of pride at victory or the frustration at defeat for your class . . . unless you have shared in the warmth of a class activity . . . or have received the glow of personal achievement which reflects upon your class—the only class that had to paint the "rock" five times in one football season, the class which stood together as one in the comradeship of senior year, the class which has shown in every action the earnest desire "not to equal, but to excel".

As we look back upon the last four years, the sights, the sounds, the places, and the events associated with our class seem essential to remember. They have formed the background of our character and they have imprinted on us a never fading image of "our high school days . . ."

Junior Class Officers

We, the one hundredth class to graduate from Fitchburg High School, are now ready to take our places among those who have preceded us. For four years we have been guided by dedicated teachers who have attempted to prepare us for this moment. Now it is up to us to exemplify the type of people they have wished us to become: mature young adults eager and able to meet the demands of our new lives.

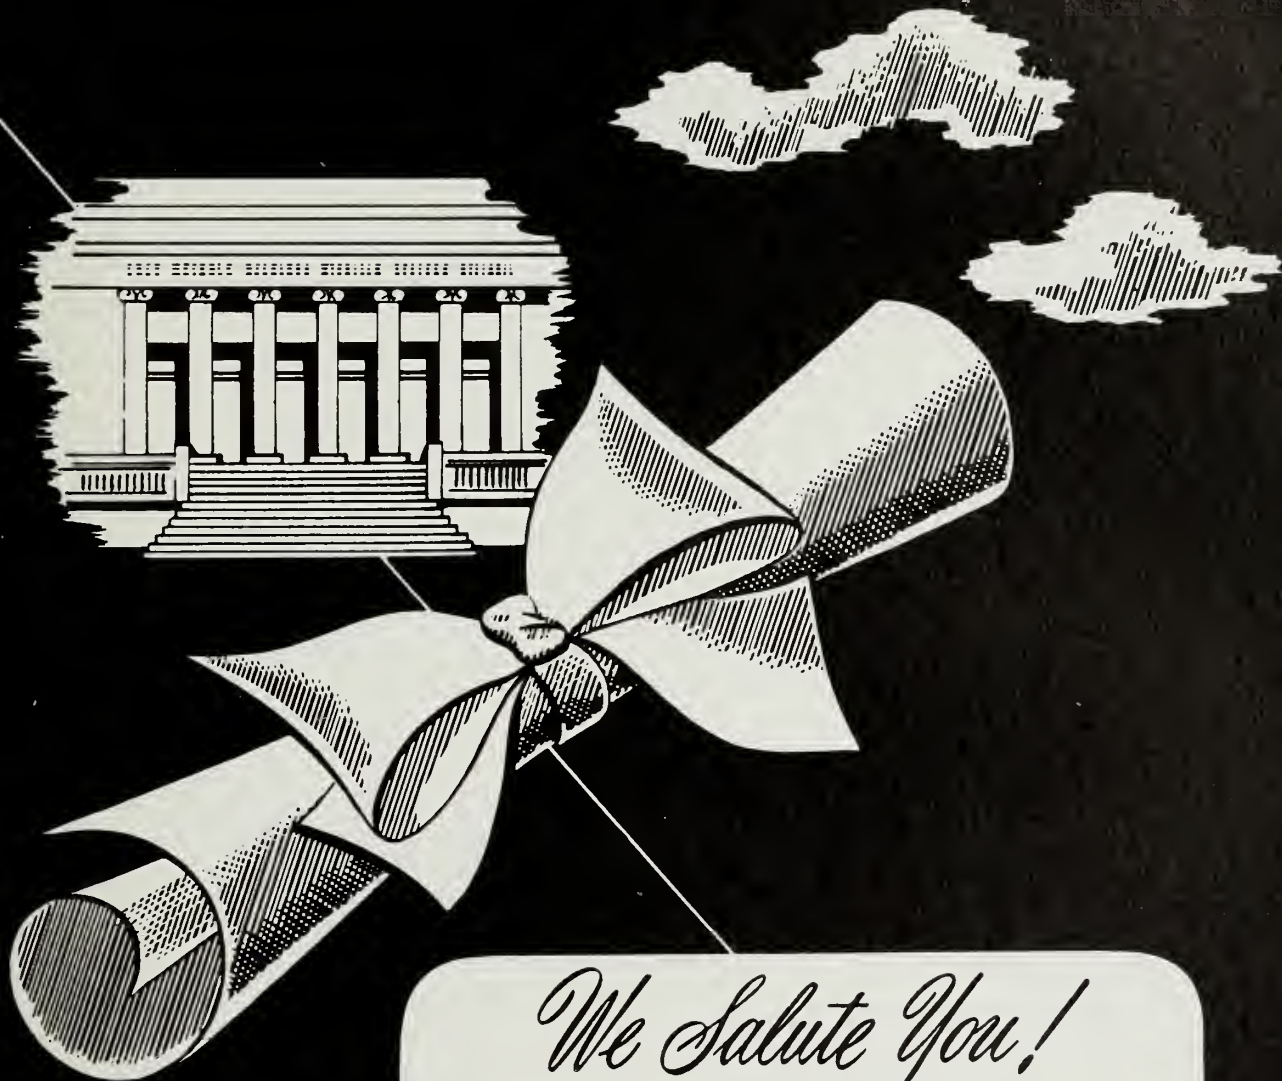

Now to the Class of Nineteen Hundred and Sixty Seven we leave the position of prominence. They are to be the leaders, the first of a new century for Fitchburg High School. May they accept the responsibility of setting an example for the one hundred classes to follow. May they use the advantages of their senior year well. Above all, we wish for the new senior class the ability to unlock the stores of knowledge housed within the walls of our school and the foresight to use this knowledge wisely.

The Fitchburg nine deserves credit for doing a remarkably good job in the 1966 season. This is the first year in seven years that our baseball team has entered District Three Playoffs. FHS, eliminated from District Three playoffs by losing to St. Mary's of Milford, should have no qualms about its tournament showings. The diamond nine handily defeated its first two foes and lost to St. Mary's in a difficult eleven inning game.

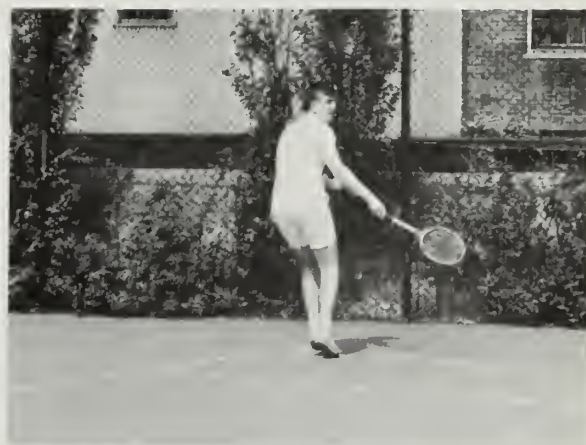

For a while during the regular season play Athol dominated the NCMC standings. However, Fitchburg in its second meeting with Athol defeated the Tool City boys and tied the league standings. Athol in its next game lost to Gardner while FHS beat Leominster. Our win placed us one game ahead of Athol and consequently brought us to the NCMC championship.

Special thanks are extended to Coach Jerry O'Rourke for developing a fine squad and to the senior boys who contributed very much to our victories.

1966 CLASS SONG

Words: Steven Rustari
Music: Paul Revell

1. When we with joy and sadness bid farewell to Fitchburg High

And to her years of guidance and of training now gone by

And to her many friendships cherish'd more than words can tell,

We vow: "To equal will not do; our goal is to ex - cel."

2. While braving life's great challenges and vanquishing all fear,

We shall recall with heartfelt pride and mem - o - ry still clear

The hundredth class to grad - u - ate has record won so well

Which shows: "To equal will not do; our goal is to ex - cel."

3. For armed with truth, un-shak-en faith, sincere i-deals, our soul

Will make our reach ex-ceed our grasp our ev - er-last-ing goal.

What - ev - er hardship or defeat our spirit tries to quell,

We'll hold: "To equal will not do; our goal is to ex - cel."
